

ICT Conference

The Village Hotel 31st March 2017

ICT with Mr.P

Using Technology to Raise Standards

Keynote speaker Lee Parkinson

Famous for his ICT with Mr.P website, Lee has been a Primary Teacher for 8 years where he has built a wealth of ideas for how technology can be embedded right across the curriculum. He has successfully worked alongside children from EYFS through to Year 6 looking at how iPads can enhance teaching and learning throughout the curriculum.

Lee's keynote will focus on practical ways to use ICT to raise standards across the curriculum.

There will be three seminar sessions through the day for delegates to attend:

Seminar 1

Lee Parkinson will be providing a session where he will outline his three step approach to improving writing through technology. He will demonstrate a range of ideas to support this approach and show an example of work created in the classroom.

Seminar 2

Jordan Graham, Head of computing in a middle school in Northumberland, CAS master teacher, CEOP ambassador, Google educator & Raspberry pi cert educator, will be delivering a session along with Julie Newton, from Tweedmouth West First School, where she is involved in the planning and teaching of computing across the school. In this session they will look at teaching Computing from Early Years to Key Stage 3.

Seminar 3

In Seminar 3 we have invited a number of teachers from schools across Northumberland to talk about how they are successfully using ICT within their schools. Discussion will range from Ozobots, HP Stream books, Frog Progress, Treasure Island writing challenge linked to the National Theatre video & practical approaches to e-safety.

Delegates will have the opportunity to attend all three seminars during the day.
